MONTICELLO, Mar. I .- Making due allowance for the difference of time between this and the Washington merid ian, I conjecture that at the moment of this writing President-elect Cleveland is delivering his inaugural address. That he will deliver one of his characteristically strong and vigorous talks upon the subject of tariff, taxation and pension frands does not, however, lie so much in conjectme. The country is prepared for this and reasonably expects it. Indeed, there will be grave disoppointment it when the address is given forth by the press it shall be found to contain lukewarm atterances upon those vital questions. Intelligent discussion and the reading of current political hterature have awakened an interest that did not die with the excitement of the November empaign. The democracy of the 11th district, being presently represented in Congress by a republican, can only encourage the work by timely plaudits; but they will not weary in the effort to redeem the mountains from captivity. They know that their cause is just; they | Children's know that the intelligence and patriotism of the country are with them, and with this backing they will conquer.

HAILROAD. On the second Monday of this month, Hon. Bennett Young will speak to the people of the county in encouragement of a railroad project now under consideration. Enthusiasm is not exactly at white heat, but a deep interest is manifesting itself in every part of the county. The present proposition is to build a road heginning at Burnside, on the C. S., running in a southwesterly direction so as to give connection direct with Nashville, Tenn. We have been doomed to many disappointments over railway projects, but tope springs eternal, and our people are ready for another enterprise. There need be no wonder at this, for so rich a country in timber, ron, coal, copper and lead can not be found in the United States. We know nothing but a railroad will bring these the building of one.

GROVER CLEVELAND is president of these United States. The ceremonles attending his inaugural were greatly marred by the weather, snow falling in great lakes and the wind blowing furionsly, but the man of destiny seemed not to inlind it and with uncovered head delivered his admirable address as clearly and as distinctly as if the surroundings had beed all he desired. There never was such a crowd in Washington and the parade exceeded anything in history, over 40,000 men being in line. Mr. Cleveland's atterances on the tariff and the currency are in full touch with the platform on which he was elected, and are a imirably expressed, as are also his condemnation of the tendency to pater nalism in government and prolligacy in the appropriation of public funds. The former 'leads to a challenge of wild and overleaps the bounds of grateful recognition of patriotic services, and prostitutes to vicious uses the people's prompt and generous impulse to aid those disabled threw a worse clamper over the office- ly but firmly. Ir has been a question as to what we shall do with our ex presidents, though it seems they have generally heen able to take care of themselves. Mr. Cleveland kept the wolf from his door very handsomely by the practice of law and Mr. Hays succeeded in doing likewise in the poultry business. Ex-President Hairison has already solved the question so far as he is concerned by accepting a professorship in the Leland Stanford University, and will deliver a series of lectures on constitutional law, commencing next October. The salary is said to he $25,000 a year.

STANFORD, KY . . MARCH 7, 1893 INTERESTING DEBUTANTES OF THE WASHINGTON SEASON.

> How the Daughters of Scuator Brice, Chief Justice Faller, Vice President Morton, Representative Enlue and the Late General Belkrane Were Introduced to Society. Copyright, 1893, by American Fress Associa-

> There were not so many blossoms added to the "rosebnd garden of girls" this season as last, but they were very charming and attractive ones. Teas more or less elaborate served to introduce them. No matter how much a girl has gone around, she is not considered "out," except by quite old fashloned folk, until some such formal presentation has been made. After that she is invited by all her friends to assist in entertaining joys it immensely, ponring innumerable cups of tea and looking so pretty while doing it that the average man-and womon, toccis apt to drink more of the not always cheering boverage than is strictly healthful, just for the pleasure of looking at her. About Christmas the hads bloomed very fast. Sometimes two or three would make their bows the same

It was at a very pretty tea that Miss Grayson Wendling, second daughter of the eloquent and well known lecturer, Mr. George R. Wendling, was presented by her parents to their large circle of triends - Her old Christianname is that of her mother's family-the Graysons of ticorgetown and Virginia. For her, 1 Janey, it is usually shortened into Grace, which is quite appropriate. She is barely 18, tall and well tormed, with good features, clear, creamy complexion, light brown taur and lovely dark brown eyes She has been carefully educated, especial-

> Miss Alice Belkrap, daughter of the late General W. W. Belknap, was prosented by her mother at another pretty tea. The pair made a lovely picture as they stood together welcoming their many friends. Mrs. Bellmap is tall, superbly formed, dark haired and dark eyed Her daughter is like her in height and shape, bas her dark eyes and brows, with a profusion of golden hair, and complexion of purest plak and white. She is well educated, clever and accomplished in many ways, and a daring and gracefnl rider.

> Miss Cornelin Day McLanahan, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. McLanahan, is a tall and graceful girl. with large brown eyes, clear, warm coneplexion and wavy, dark anburn hair, which is worn in a large coil at the back of her shapely head. She is descended from good old Revolutionary families of ] New York and Pennsylvania and has been carefully educated, chiefly abroad. She speaks several languages with ease, is a graceful horsewoman and an accomplished whip. Her parents have a beautiful summer home on the Hudson and a handsomo residence here. The ten given to introduce their daughter was an elegant affair.

Mando Virginia Peyton Walcott daughter of Colonel William H. Walcott, U. S. A., retired, belongs to a musteal family-futher, mother and children all playing upon some kind of instrument. This young lady is equally at home with piano, drum, tambourine and one or two other instruments; so, very naturally, the tea given for her debut merged into a musicale. Like most of her sister blossoms, sho is tall and slender, has a fair complexion, fine

BARA BAINBRIDGE SHIELDS.

A charming and cultured girl is Sara Bainbridge Shields, daughter of General George H. Shields, assistant attorney general for the interlor department. She is well up for so young a girl in the best literature of the day, and speaks fluently French, German and Spanish. She was introduced at an enjoyable and largely attended tea. Mrs. Shields, an accomplished and agreeable woman, is corresponding secretary of the Daughters of the Revolution. This pleasant family home in St. Louis soon after the coming of the new administration and will be missed by a large circle of warm friends. To Introduce their second daughter, Margaret Katherine, Senator and Mrs. Calvin S. Brice of Ohio gave a superb tea, followed by a dance, in their new home, the historic Corcoran mansion on 11 street. For months workmen land been beautifying the old bonse, and soclety was on tiploe to see the result, to say nothing of welcoming another member of this popular family. Miss Kate, as she is usually called, though not one of the tall girls, is of fair height and good tignre She has dark eves and soft brown hair, put back rather plainly. Like her sister Helen, a great favorite here, she has been very carefully educated.

All of Chief Instice and Mrs. Melville W. Fuller's large family of girls are leight, pret'y and attractive. One of the brightest, prettiest and most attractive is Kutherine, the fifth or sixth-I am not sure which, as they all married and went away before society had much chance to become acquainted with them. She is not very tall, but so slim and erect that one thinks her taller than she is. She is daintily rounded, light and gracetul as a bird. Her smilling gray eyes have a hint of blue in them, and her head is crowned with short golden brown curls. Her manner is very natural and pleasing. She talks well and is altogether a charming young girl.

A pretty, well rounded little girl, with brown hair, laughing brown eyes and round, dimpled face, is Murie Williamson, daughter of Chief Engineer Thom Williamson, U. S. N., for whom a pleasnut ten was given at the family resldence on Rhode Island avenue. She is one of several accomplished sisters, is quite musical, playing the banjo particularly well

The usual programme was changed for the coming out of Miss Edith Morton, the vice president's eldest daughter. A dinner was given, with a cotilion afterward. There was no crowding, for the number of gnests was limited-a difficult task, I should think, for Mr. and Mrs. Morton, who have such a large circle of personal friends. Miss Morton wore pink instead of the usual white gown of the debutanto. Pink roses were everywhere in profusion, and the pretty favors for the german were pink too. Miss Morton, one of the tallest of the new girls, is fair, with soft, pale brown lair, good features, a lovely expression and most charming and refined manner. She has been carefully educated, chiefly at home under her mother's eye, and is a credit in every way to her gracious and high bred parents.

Adele Ashworth Euloe, daughter of Representative B. A. Enloc of Tennessec. ls a charming type of the southern girl. Tall, slender and graceful, she has black curty hair, dark blue eyes and delicately fair complexion, with rose tints in the cheeks. She is just out of school, speaks German, reads a great deal and is quite an artist, painting beautifully from nature. She had no formal coming cut, but made her first appearance at a large reception given by her mother and several other ladies at the National hotel. Another attractive girl, who glided ont, as it were, without a formal annonneement, is Valentina Mendonca, the youngest of the Brazilian minister's four daughters. She is a real Spanish girl in appearance, has dark eyes and hair, heavily penciled brows and clear olive skin. She is a fearless and graceful horsewoman, as are her sisters, and speaks English as well as her native tongue, but then most of her life has been spent here, so why shouldn't she! Her charming stepmother is an American woman, but looks as much a Span iard as any of her girls.

Miss Amy Lieber, daughter of Colonel G. N. Lieber, judge advocate general of the war department, was one of the attractive girls whose coming out was celebrated by an elegant tea. Sho is one of the tall buds, has soft, light brown halr, fair complexion, good features and gray blue eyes, is accomplished and very ngreeable in manner. Still another led and a most charming one is Marion Gratz Crosby, daughter of Admiral Crosby, whose home for many years has been in this city. Sho is of good height and figure, has brown eyes and hair, fair complexion and a sweet smile. She has been carefully educated and has a very refined and pleasing man-JULIETTE M. BARRITT. ner

The Gifted Kembles.

The Kembles covered five generations of actors, the most gifted family in that profession that the world has seen. But the dramatic gifts do not come from the Kemble side of the house, but from the female line. Roger Kemble was not an actor when he married the beautiful and accomplished daughter of an actor named Ward, but a hairdresser. Under his wife's tnition and with her companionship he developed into a fair actor, however. Twelve children were born to the comple. The oldest and most gifted of all was Mrs. Siddons. The dramatic power of the Kembles thus came through their mother, and the greatest of them was also a womm. The genius shines conspicuous on the female side throughout. If Mrs. Siddons was the greatest of the Kembles, the next greatest was her niece, Fanny Kemble, who died at will probably return to their former the beginning of this year.

THE HOG IS THERE.

At Last He Has Come on Top In the Price

Line. High prices for fat and stock hogs and pork product must of course have the inevitable effect of creating a heavy demand for good breeding stock, and we have already reached the point where fiao sows are in some lustances worth much more than good cows. Breeders of registered hogs have for some time past seen signs of a rapidly developing boom, and at the West Liberty (la.) sale of Poland-Chinas the fact was developed In a startling manner that breeding hogs are now in greater demand than for many years.

An average of over $129 for 67 head and repeated offers of $100 per head at private treaty for fine sows owned by local breeders from parties unable to supply themselves at the sale would indicate that owners of good pure bred swino have at the present time something of a bonanza.

At the annual meeting of the American Poland-China Breeders' association, held at Cedar Rapids just before this sale, there was a large attendance, and the opinion was freely expressed that the demand will not only exceed the supply, but that it will take several years to, breed back to the point where hogs will again be plentiful.

We congratulate swino growers upon the good fortune that has overtaken those who are in shape to profit by the peculiar conditions now existing and trust that calm judgment and discretion rather than undue excitement will guide investors safely through the era of high prices now inaugurated. Hogs are now legitimately worth a good price, and the swine herd properly handled should yield a landsome return for the ensning year at least .- Breeder's Gazette.

White Holland Turkeys.

We reproduce from The Ponttry World the accompanying artistic illustration of Ite and mammoth bronze turkey family will doubtless furnish the popular market fowl, yet for fanciers and for giving variety to picturesque poultry yards the white Holland makes a brilliant appear-ferent one in New England. Early in the 16th century specimens of both breeds of the national bird of America were taken to Enrope, where in the course of time they were propagated and, domesticated.

The memory of more than one or two of our readers will go back to a period when the "old white turkey hen" was a feature of the farmyard and poultry roost. But in time the breeds differentiated till new the bronze is the prevailing type in America. Meantime the difterentiation in Europe proceeded along another line and produced the handsome birds of which those in the illustration are a type. The Holland white turkey is a favorite in many quarters. Its flesh is tender, and it attains good size. Its glistening pluanage makes it a conspicuous object for hawks, however, merry soul, with heart and brain full of in districts where that bird of prey has not yet been externinated.

Dacking Lambs.

The Wiltshire (England) way of lamb docking is given as follows: Two men sit upon a stool about 6 feet long, facing each other, holding the lamb between them. One man puts his arm around the lamb, securing the fore legs, the other holding the hind legs. The operator selects a ram hamle first, and using an iron for castration returns it to a boy, who replaces it in n wood fire and hands back the "tailing iron," an instrument about 24 Inches wide at one end, with a thin cutting edge, having a handle about 1t or 15 inches long, heated sufficiently to canterize.

The proper joint having been selected the operator presses the iron upon the tail, which comes off instantly, and then the same instrument sears the veins if necessary. A ewe lamb is handed up immediately, and with the instrument the tail is removed without further heating, and this goes on alternately, thus saying time. Bleeding after docking is never known with this process.

Confidential as to the Hackney.

A prominent dealer in trotters took the reporter aside and said: "My boy, let me give you a pointer lu strict confidence. The day of the trotter is doomed us a gentleman's driving horse, The star of the hackney looms way up near the comet. They want horses that can draw their heavy carts and carriages at a lively pace more than fast trotters. and the lackney was never in such great demand. Prices are stiff and will conthrue so, as the hackney has come to stay." - Philadelphia Times.

That color can be fed into butter is well known by dairymen, but to what extent is not definitely known. There is is naturally a very considerable difference in the shades of Jersey butter, and each of these shades may be deepened or lightened by judicions feeding. Among the articles that deepen the color of butter are carrots and commeal. Yellow comment tends to make a deeper colored butter than white corn.

BEAUTY AND ENTHUSIASM.

Miss Grace Margaret Gould Possesses These Attractive Attributes.

Beauty and journalism do not always travel together-in fact, there are some very clever newspaper writers who are not altoget, or fair to look upon. New York, however, is exceptionally forthnate in having nearly a score of really beautiful scribes whose work finds its way dai'y into the public press.

GRACE MARGARET GOULD.

Miss Grace Margaret Gould, formerly of Albany, but for the past year a resident of busy New York, may lay claim to being one of these. Miss Gould is tall, dark and very winning in manner, with eyes of agnre brown.

But it is not of her appearance alone that Miss Gould may be justly proud, for she is one of a busy staff of hustling reporters, and her daily work is both arduons and varied. All sorts of topics come from her facile pen. She writes child's storles, does fashions in dress and In furniture, reports committee meetlngs and writes up balis, weddings and food exhibits.

The life of a New York newspaper woman is a busy one, and, as Miss Gould declares, a woman must put all her time, her intellect and her character into her work, or she will not be a success. AUGUSTA PHEISCOTT.

> Among my friends is a young woman who has lately refused three different offers of marriage. She is a strong, beantiful, queenly girl, who supports herself handsomely by a work she has chosen. She is attractive in society, and people wonder why she does not marry. She and would make one of the sweetest, noblest of wives. Why does she not marry? When asked that question by tntimate friends, she answers simply, "I don't know anybody I would have." With admirers in plenty she tells the literal truth. The young men who offer themselves to her are of a type which is lamentably common in all cities-just the ordinary, well dressed, undersized, scrawny, cigarette smoking, alcohol drinking youth who is proud of going on Saturday night "tears" or "tares." whichever way you would rather spell it. One of the three my young lady liked almost well enough to marry. But the tainted atmosphere of his past life followed him and clung to him in spite of himself, barring him out forever from the pure home he sought to enter. The ordinary type of city youth whom girls meet is apt to be of the kind I mention There is another type, somewhat rarer, thick necked, red faced, rather resembling the prizefighter kind. From these two classes the strong, beautiful, queenly girl whom our time is developing must choose a busband, if she takes one at all. The number of those who do not take any is Increasing. Where is the ideal lover that all women dream of, the lithe, erect, manly, broad shouldered St. Louis, youth, with cheeks rose tinted by health and a clean life, with brilliant eyes and flashing white teeth, the boy of frank, noble aspirations? Undoubtedly there are such royal lovers still for our young American queens, but where are they? Answer me that. A great step has been made in the higher education of women in Germany. With the Accompaniment of a Blinding Snowstorm,

THE PARADE NOT NEAR SO LARGE AS WAS EXPECTED

OWING TO A VERY SUDDEN CHANGE IN THE WEATHER.

The Four Lending Features of Imaguration Day Are the Closing Haurs of Cangress, the Rides lound From the Capitol and the Inaugural Rall in the Pension Bullding-Everything Enacted According to a Program Arranged Some Time situted by the Inclement Weather-The Bail Closes al Midnight.

Washington, March 4 .- Saturday Grover Cleveland of New York, thrice nonmated for president of the United States and twice elected, was successfully inducted into that high office for his second term with all uppropriate GROVER PLEVELAND. ceremonies and the gathering of a mighty multitude, and with the necompaniment of a blinding snowstorm. But notwithstanding every disalvantage of the weather, the last occasion was greater than the first.

Had the atmospheric condition been anything like tuvorable, instead of being as bad as could possibly be, there would probably have been 60,000 mentand a number of ladies marching or riding in the parade, as against 25,000 in 1885. the Washington navy yard, with the They were all here waiting to fall in admirably drilled national guard of the line, but at the last moment many of district, the high school callet regiment the organizations were compelled to de- and other local organizations. sist from participating. Nevertheless, the occasion was made memorable by the vust attendance.

The governors of eleven great states-Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Louisiana, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Wisconsinparticipated in the national ceremonies and thereby emphasized the complete restoration of pational unity.

Mere interesting and significant than this, perhaps, in the eyes of other nations and the historian, were the marvellous growth of the country in population and power, and the fact that this momentous and majestig change in the government of 65,000,000 of people was accomplished according to a cut-anddried formula, every step of which was planaed axel publicly antionned before-1 hand, and without noticeable disturbunce of public interests or the creation of any excitement except that naturally accompanying a great political pageant and the influx of two or three hundred thousand sightseers into the capital.

The order of proceeding was almost identically the same as four years ago. , with the action of the chief participants reversed, and it differed very little, except in the extent of the demonstration, from the ceremonies of eight years ago, which brought Mr. Cleveland to Washington (on the 2d of March, 1885), for the first time in his public career.

There are four great leading features of inauguration day—the closing hours of congress, into which so much lawmaking and history are frequently crowded; the ride of the retiring president and the president and vice president-elect, with their military esport, from the White House to the Capitol to lay down and take up the reins of power respectively; the pageant of the return-ing procession and review after the ceremonies of inauguration are over, and the inauguration hall at night.

Since blunt old John Adams, gripsack In hand, "slid" out of the White House in the early morning dawn of March 4, to avoid extending to his hated rival, Thomas defferson, the hospitalities of the executive mansion, there has been no break in the muform courtesy extended every four or eight years by the retiring chief to his successor, unless there be excepted the personal misunderstanding which arose between President Andrew Johnson and General Grant in the last days of the former's administration, which made their intercourse a frigid formality. In this year of grace conftesy between the ontgoing and incoming powers has reigned su-

The scene along the line of march was such as no city but Washington and no streets but its broad and well-paved Pennsylvania avenue could produce. The heavy rain of Tuesday had washed away the snow and prepared city for the beauti-ful weather which was to follow. Public and private stands erected along the line of march from the Capitol to a point beyond the White Ilonse had an estimated seating capacity of 60,000 persons, and every one of them was crowded. Previous experience with the Knights

Templar conclave three years ago, and the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic last year had prepared the city to receive and accominodate crowds, but no such vast concourse as this ever before gathered in the nation's capital.

Every foot of standing room along the route of the procession, fully two miles in length, was occupied by windows commanding a view of the parade Amid a Larger Flourish of Trumpets brought fabulous prices, and advantageous seats on the public stands communded prices ranging from $5 up and

> The main stand, from which President Cleveland reviewed the paralle, was erected immediately in front of the White House. It was 150 feet long and unite deep and land a comfortal ie seating capacity of 1,100 persons, 600 more than the corresponding stand erected on the same site for the inauguration of President Harrison. It was decorated with effective taste. In the center was an arch 42 feet bigh handsomely draped and surmounted by the arms of the United States.

The vast treasury building was completely walled in with stunds. On all the little parks and public reservations on the line of march, and on every other available point, stands were erected.

> Capitol Hill, as far as the eye could reach, from the eastern front of the Capitol was an undulating sea of humanity assembled to witness the administering of the oath of office to the new president by the chief justice of the United States and to hear, as many of them as could get within earshot, the inangural address. The picturesque and theroughly Republican practice of taking the oath of effice and delivering the imagural address in the open air in the presence of the people was beginn by Zuchary Taylor in 1809. Previously the inaugural address had been read in was greater in numbers and more imposing in military and civic display than that of any previous inauguration. General Martin F. McMahon of New York was grand marshal. He was ably assisted by his adjutant general, Colonel newspaper columns. The civic half of the parade was fully as numerous and as interesting as the militury display. The civic procession, under the mar-shalship of Colonel William Dickson, was in six divisions and aggregated more than 20,000 men, and quite a noticeble

Proceedings at the Capital. The proceedings at the capitol followed a prescribed program, issued by the committee of arrangements, as follows:

The eact doors of the senate wing of the Capitol were opened at 10 o'clock a. m. to those who are entitled to admission. The doors of the senate chamber And the Danger is From the People were opened an hour later.

The president and president-elect entered the senate wing by the bronze doors in the east from, each accompanied by a member of the committee of arrangements. The Inaugural Batt is a feature of the advent of a new administration and this was no exception. It was held in the pension building and although the ballroom is 316 by 116 feet the crowd was so great but little dancing could be indulged in. About 10,000 people usually attend the ball which costs in the neighborhood of $250,000. The decorations alone this year rost $60,000.

The inaugural ball is as old as the presidency itself. The first was held

My Fellow Citizens-In obedience to the mandate of my countrymen I am about to dedicate myself to their service under the sanction of a solemn oath Heepiy moved by the expression of confidence and personal intrachiaent which loss called me to this service, I am sure my gratitude can make no better return than the pledge I now give before God and these witnesses of unreserved and complete devotion to the interests and welfare of those who have honored me.

I deem it fitting on this occasion, while Indicating the equinions I hold concerning jublic questions of present importance to also briefly refer to the existence of certaln conditions and rendencies among our people which seem to memore the integrity and usefulness of tacir government. White every American citizen most contemplate with the trast prode and enthusasar the growth and expansion of our country, the suface ney of our institutions to stand against the rudest shocks of violence, the wonderful thrift and enterprise of our people, and the demonstrated supemained until he entered the senate riority of our free government, it behooves chamber where the oath of office was us to constantly watch for every symptom administered to him by the vice presi- of insidents liditinity that threatens our

Its exposure to degradation should at once arouse to nethvity the most enlightened statesmanship, and the danger of depreciation in the parchesing power of the wages paid to toil should invuish the strongest incentive to prompt and conservative precaution. In dealing with our present embarrassing situation, as related to this subject, we will be wise if we temper our confidence and faith in our national strength and dem of our return to right and justice. The verdict of our voters, which contection for protection's sake, enjoins upon the people's servants the duty of exposing and destroying the brood of kindred evils which are the unwhidesome progetty of paternalism. Tlds is the bane of Republigan Institutions and the constant peril of our government by the people. It degrades to the purposes of wily craft the plan of rule our fathers established and bequeathed to us as an object of our love and veneration. It perverts the patriotic sentiment of our countrymercand tempts them to a pitiful calculation of the sordid galn to be derived from their government's maintenauce. It undermines the self-reliance of our people and substitutes in its place de penderce mon governmental favoritism. it stiffes the spirit of true Americanism and stupeties ever ennobling traits of American citizenship. The lessons of paternalism ought to be undearned and the better lessons taught that while the people should periodically and cheerfully support their government its functions do not include the support of the people.

The acceptance of this principle leads to a refusal of bounties and subsidies, which burden the labor and thrift of a portion of our citizens to aid ill advised or languishing enterprises in which they have no concern. It leads also to a challenge of wild and reckless pension expenditure, which overleaps the bounds of grateful recognition of patriotic service and prostitutes to vicions uses the people's prompt and generons impulse to aid those disabled in their country's defense.

Every thoughtful American must realize the importance of the checking at its beglaning any tendency in public or private station to regard frugality and economy as virines which we may safely onigrow. The toleration of this idea vesuits in the waste of the people's money by their chosen servants and encourages prodigality and extravagance in the home life of our countrymen.

Under our scieme of government the waste of public money is a crime against the citizens, and the contempt of our people for economy and fragality in their personal affairs, deplorably saps the strength and sturdlness of our national character.
It is a plain illetate of honesty and good government that public expenditures should be limited by public necessity and that this should be measured by the rules of strict economy; and it is equally clear that frugality among the people is the best guaranty of a contented and strong support of free lustitutions.

One mode of the misappropriation of the public funds is avoided when appointments to office, instead of being the rewards of partisau netlyity, are awarded to those whose efficiency promises a fair return of work for the compensation paid to them. To seeme the litness and competency of appointers to office, and tore move from political action the demoraliz ing madness for spoils, civil service reform has found a place in our public policy and

The benefits already gained through this instrumentality and the farder to fulness it promises, entitle it to the heart support and encouragement of all wh desire to see our public service ved ; formed, or who hope for the clevicting of political sentiment and the purity mento political methods, The existence of immense againg than of kindred enterprises and combinati u of business interests, formed for the par pose of limiting production and tixaprices, is inconsistent with the talr field which ought to be open to every independent activity. Legitimate strife in basineshould not be superceded by an enforced concession to the demands of combination that have the power to destroy; nor identif the people to be served lose the benefit of cheapness, which usually results from wholesome competition.

These aggregations and combinations frequently constitute conspiracies against the interests of the people, and in all their phases they are montural and opposed to pur American sense of fairness. To the extent that they can be reached and restrained by federal power, the general gov-*rument should relieve our citizens from abely interference and exactions.

Loyalty to the principles upon which our government rests, positively demands that the equality before the law which it gnarantees to every citizen should be justly and in good faith conceded in all parts of the land. The enjoyment of this right follows the bade of citizenship wherever found and, midmpaired by race or edor, it appeads for recognition to American manlaness and fairness. Carrebatics with the Indians located withicour borders impress man us responsifalities we can not escape. Ibimun-Ity and consistency require as to treat them with forbearance, and in our dealings with thera to homestly and considerately regard their interests. Every effort should be made to less them through the path of civilization and education to self supporting and independent citizens. In the meantime, as the instina's words they should be promptly detended against the empldity of designing men, and shielded from every influence or temptation that retards their advancement.

The people of the United States have decreed that on this day the emirol of their government in its legislative and excentive branches shall be given to a poinleal party piedged in the most terms to the accomplishment of tarlif reform. They have thus deterioned in favor of a more jest and equitable system of federal taxation. The agents they have chosen to entry out their purposes are found by their promises not less than by the com found of their masters, to devote Themselves unremittingly to this service.

While there should be no surrender of principle, our task must be undertaken wisely and without vindiciativeness. thr mission is not punishment by by the recti tication of wrongs. If in lifting burdens from the daily life of our people we reduce inoplinate and unequal advantages too hong enjoyed this is but a necessary hernpen a principal which imilerlies over free institution. When we tear ashie the discussions and ansconceptions which have Edunded our convergioen to their con dition and r vicious tariff laws, we but show them how far they have been led away from the paths of contentment and prosperity. When we proclaim that the necessity for revenue to support the government farmshes the only jestitles tion for mixing the people, we amounce a trnih soplan that its denid would seem to indicate the extent to which pads ment may be influenced by fandly ordy with perversions of the faxing power; and when we seek to reinstate the confidence and lustness enterprise of our citizens, by discrediting an abject dependence upon governmental fivor, we strive to simulate those elements of American character which support the hope of American achievement

Anxiety for the redemption of the pledges which my party have unde, and oficunde for the complete justification of The trust the people have reposed in us, constrains me to remind those will whom I and to coroperate that we can succeed in doing the work which has been especially set before us only by the most sincere, har monious and munterested effort. Even if Insuperable obstacles and opposition prevent the consummation of our task, we shall hardly be excused; and if failure can be traced to our fault or neglect, we may be sure the people will hold as to a swift and exacting accountability.

The oath I now take to preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the Phited States not only impressively defines the great responsibility I assume, but suggests obedience to constitutional commands as the rule by which my official conduct must be guided.

I shall, to the best of my ability and within my sphere of duty, preserve the constitution by loyally protecting every grant of federal power it contains, by detending all its restraints when attacked by impatience and restlessness, and by enforcing its limitations and reservations in favor of the states and the people' Fully Impressed with the gravity of the duties that confront me, and mindful o my weakness, I should be appalled if i were my lot to bear unalded the responsi bility whick awaits me.

I am, however, saved from discourage ment when I remember that I shall have the support and the romsel and co-operation of wise and parriotic men who will stand at my side in cabinet places, or will represent the people in their legislative 1 3hid also much comfort in remembering that my countrymen are just and generons and in the assurance that they will not condemn those who, by sincere devotion to their service, deserve their forbents unce and approval. Above all, I know there is a supreme being who rules the affairs of men and whose goodness and mercy have always followed the American people, and I know he will not turn from us now If we humbly seek his powerful ald.
